CAMPTONVILLE BACK TO NORMAL

CAMPTONVILLE, Feb. 10—Conditions are assuming a normal aspect during the past few days, the Nevada City stages, freight and mail, are now running about on time, and the Marysville line broke through the road Thursday from Dobbins with horses.

The snow has settled considerably although there is still two or three feet in most places. Some of the residents have shoveled their cars out so they can travel. A group of local men volunteered their services free to shovel out the main street of the town, getting to the post office the first day, and up as far as the Pauly residence the second day. Telephone lines have most all been repaired, and some of the roads have been cleared of trees.

This section did not suffer much from broken buildings. A few old abandoned shacks gave way here and there, but most habitable places were taken care of. The heaviest loss in this locality was felt by G. T. Langley at Bear Park, who had about completed a new six room dwelling house, which, while covered with snow, a large tree fell across it, completely wrecking the building beyond repair. At the same time, a good sized limb broke from another tree and crashed through one of his cabins. The porch roof at the home of David Lewis, on Spring street, gave way to the heavy weight and collapsed in one place. Several beams in the Hotel Francis were considerably strained, but relieved by the removal of snow from the roof. A huge chunk of solidified snow fell off the front of the local store, splintering one rafter in the porch roof.

Part of the roof of the Pendola saw mill near here fell in due to the heavy snow on it. The owners removed the snow once, but with so many buildings to take care of and shortage of help conditions got the best of them and a portion of the mill fell in.

Men from several mines in snowbound sections have been able to get to town during the past few days to get mail and a few necessary supplies. A piercing north wind during the past few days has formed a very heavy crust upon the snow, enabling a person to walk o ntop of most of it.

RESERVOIRS ARE FULL OF WATER

Superintendent H. H. Hallet Jr., reported this morning that all three reservoirs from which the city draws water are now filled. The Snow Mountain ditch at night time flows into the Sugar Loaf reservoir but during the day the water is used mainly for flushing out the ditch. But this water flows unchecked into the reservoir at night.

Fire Turns Out to Be Trash Burning Flame

A large percentage of the shopping crowd on Broad street saw what looked like a potentially serious fire on upper Boulder street last Friday afternoon about 5:30. Fireman Myers Mobley, deciding from the aspect of things that it was a chimney fire on the Talbot home, and turned in the alarm. The fire trucks responded like the minute men at Lexington and pulled up at the Nevada County Lumber Company yards in time to enjoy a huge clean-up fire that was being staged by the lumber company.

The incident shows that the Nevada City Fire Department is "on the job." It all resulted in: No damage done—no collisions—no water used.

ODE TO THE FIREMEN

By H. B. W.

It started with a rainbow,
Ditches plugged with ice floe,
Officials took it so-so.
The people just said Oh! Oh!
Firemen took on all the woe,
Everyone a real hero,
Soon they made the water flow.

JAY BRUCE TELLS HOW TO CATCH LIONS ALIVE

"First, with the aid of the dogs and after walking many weary miles, you get the lion up a tree. A long pole is then cut (the longer the better) which is used to slip a noose over its head.

"After about the third attempt, the noose is slipped over its head. Then the dogs have to be tied and the animal lowered to the ground, being careful not to strangle the captive. Then its hind feet are securely tied to a tree with a second rope holding its head, after which a sack is slipped over the entire body with a hole cut for the head. Then the lion can be tied to a pole and brought home.

LAW MAKING PER DAY COST $2,000

SACRAMENTO, Feb 12—(UP)—It cost the estate an average of $2,000 a day to keep the legislature going for the first-half session.

A check of legislative expenses, not including the cost of printing the the 3,698 bills introduced, shows a total expenditure of $54,966. Of this the senate spent $20,643, and the assembly, $34,323.

Included in the legislative bills are the traveling expenses of the lawmakers, ranging from $66.10 for Senator Ben Hulse of Imperial county, to 10 cents for Senator J. M. Inman, Sacramento.

Other expense items included such things as $33.65 for gold-plated badges for the sargeants-at-arms.

MINING AREAS MAPPED TO AID GOLD PANNERS

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 12—(UP)—A guide to "The Way Out of The Depression" has been issued by the state.

Not, however, that the publication bears any such encouragement title, but the state division of mines is hopeful it may be of use to many persons seeking means of earning a living.

The division has just issued a geologic map of the Sierra Nevada, showing the ancient gold-bearing channels and the principal gold mines of the region. Similar maps of the Weaverville and Redding areas soon will be ready for distribution, it was announced.

"The regions covered by these maps are attracting the interests of thousands of persons, for here they find they may earn a living even during these days of depression," Walter W. Bradley, state mineralogist, said.

"The state geological survey has obtained much authentic information from a large number of areas in various parts of the state. It is publishing a number of economic reports and maps on the geology and mineral resources of such areas as Siskiyou and Del Norte counties, Sacramento valley, Sonoma, Fresno and Madera counties, southern Mono and parts of San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties, the Panamint mountains and Salinas valley."

Bradley further explained that the information has been correlated in order to make it of particular usefulness to prospectors and investors. Minerals, mines, limestone, oil and gas, water supply and the geologic conditions relating to highways and other construction jobs represent some of the practical phases of the geologic study.

Counties Seek To Offset Tax Exempl U. S. Forests

SACRAMENTO, Feb 13—(UP)—California's problem of exemptions from the local property tax is acute, and legislative action should be taken to correct the situation, particularly relative to federal lands.

This is the recommendation of the state tax research bureau in a report which points out that there are 20,286,434 acres of tax-exempt national forests, parks and other federal lands in the state with an assessed valuation estimated at $95,110,000.

In Nevada county federal holdings total 115,597 acres with an assessed valuation of $420,000, the report said.

"It does not seem that the benefits derived locally from the national forests and parks compensate the counties in which they are located for the loss in taxes," the report said.

"This loss is so great in certain counties, that the problem seems worthy of the early attention of the legislature. No solution can be reached, however, without action of Congress, and therefore ,the only course open for the legislature would seem to be to memorialize Congress.

The problem is particularly acute in Alpine county where the exempt federal lands are eight times as extensive as taxable property, and five times as great in Trinity and Mono counties, it was pointed out.

The first step toward this suggested relief has been taken with the introduction of a resolution in the state senate by Senator Harold Powers, Modoc county.

This resolution asks Congress to appropriate funds sufficient to pay 5 cents an acre to counties in lieu of taxes on federal lands .

Other legislators also have indicated they intend to introduce measures seeking relief for counties within whose boundaries substantial tax exempt holdings are located.

AMER. RAILWAY EXPRESS TO SELL MONEY ORDERS

Of interest to business people of Nevada City, is the recent announcement of the American Express Company that they will sell money orders through the Western Union office, located in the lobby of the National hotel. The office will be open for such sales from 8:30 a. m. until noon and from 1:00 until 6:00 p. m. on week days, and Saturdays and from 9:00 until 10:00 a. m. and 5:00 until 6:00 p. m. on Sundays.

Because the local post office is closed Saturday afternoons and Sundays, many people have been disappointed in the past in attempting to send money over the week ends. The every day skedule of the Western Union office will remedy the condition. M. E. Dunn is the manager of the Nevada City office.

When sent to points in the United States, American Express money orders are priced as follows: From one cent to $2.50 the charge is 6 cents. The charge gradually increases until from $80.00 to $100.00 the charge is 54 cents. Foreign rates are somewhat higher according to the destination of order.

ROSEVILLE AGAIN BEATS NEVADA CITY TEAM

Playing a fighting game with a major handicap, the Nevada City high school class A basketball team was defeated by the Roseville high school in the Redmiens Hall of this city, Friday night. The score of 41 to 32 tells the story. The big handicap that the local team labored under was the lack of practice during the two weeks preceding the game, the last week of which the team had but one day's workout.

As for the game itself, Nevada City should have taken it but their inability to "sink 'em" meant the old ball game. Chapman and Toccalini, forwards, were the most effective scorers for the locals' and with the aid of their teammates ran up enough points to win if the team's defensive play had come up to snuff. But 42 points still is enough to win the majority of basketball games and so it did Friday night.

In the preliminary game, the Roseville B team led the Nevada City B team by a slight but effective margin for the entire route. The final score of 35 to 28 was even a bit closer than that of the A teams' game. The B team was laboring under the same handicap that the A team was—lack of practice. Tamblyn and Sbaffi were the most dependable players on offensive plays, but like the A team also, Nevada City's defensive play could not stem the tide of Roseville's offense.

Plans outlined by Coach Bev Barron of Nevada City, call for a strenuous week of afternoon practices this week in preparing for the Lincoln game here next Friday night Barron plans to have no alibis and will shoot the work against Lincoln.

CARS MEET, ONE TURNS SHARPLY AND UPSETS

Yesterday afternoon about 4:30, when Mrs. Ed Uren of this city was returning from Grass Valley, she pulled well over to her side of the road to allow another car to pass, going the opposite direction. Both cars had apparently plenty of room, but the south bound auto pulled too far off of the road and in cutting his wheels sharply to regain the highway, the driver turned his car over on its side. The accident occured about 150 feet south of the Midway Barbecue.

Mrs. Uren stopped her car at once and offered aid as did eight or ten other passing autoists and Thomas Riley of the Midway Barbecue. A man in a car going to Nevada City was asked to send a tow car back to help as the combined efforts of several men were unequal to the occasion when they tried to turn the car right side up. The two men in the car had to break a window in the car to get out. The older man, who appeared somewhat dazed, suffered a cut hand as the only injury. He was the driver of the over-turned car.

Upon receiving word that the wrecked car needed help, a tow truck was sent to the scene by the Plaza Garage. But when it reached the place where the over-turned car was supposed to be, the driver was told that the men had obtained other help and had gone on their way.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 9—(UP)—Management and operation of the veterans' Home at Yountville may be transferred from the state to the federal government, according to Rolland A. Vandergrift, state director of finance.

Vandergrift has proposed the transfer as an economy measure for the state and has been advised Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, head of the United States Veterans' Bureau, plans an immediate inspection of the Yountville property.

Veterans' Homes in Oregon and New York have been taken over by the federal government, Vandegrift said.

STATE SCHOOL LANDS FOR SALE 750,000 ACRES

SACRAMENTO, Feb 12—(UP)—Californians with a longing to become landowners have little cause for worry over the lack of available sites to purchase.

Records at the division of lands show the state has approximately 750,000 acres of "school lands" for sale cheap—and few buyers in sight.

Of course, there's a catch in it. For, according to Surveyor General W. S. Kingsbury, the choice lands are gone, and what remains for sale consists chiefly of desert and hill area of possible future value but which at the present time is virtually worthless.

These "school lands" first came into being in 1853 when Congress allocated to California the 16th and 36th section in each township. Revenue derived from the sale of these sections since that time has gone into a school fund which now totals more than $7,000,000.

For many years the land was disposed of at $1.25 an acre for good, bad and indifferent property, the records showing many instances where fortunes were taken from land bought for a song, while sharp disappointments followed other purchases. One section in Kern county, originally sold for $800, is now valued at more than $25,000,000 by its present owners, an oil company.

The price was raised to $2.50 an acre in 1909 and ten years later a system of selling at public auction was adopted, some parcels bringing as high as $150 per acre. Under the present system the price is fixed by appraisal after application is placed with a filing fee of $5, and payment must be cash.

SKELETON BILLS HAUNT CAPITOL

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 12—(UP)—The state capitol is a spooky place these days. It's full of skeletons—that is, skeleton bills.

The whole situation came about because legislators can't make up their minds in a period so short as four weeks, the length of the first-half session.

The "skeleton" bill is just a way of getting around the law limiting each number of the assembly and senate to the introduction of not more than two bills during the last half of the session.

Such bills are little more than bill titles, but each one holds a place until the author makes up his mind about that new law so important to the welfare of the state.

When the legislature convened early last month, the law makers all assured each other there would be no skeleton bills this year.

A study of the 3,698 measures introduced shows, however, hundreds of measures that are bills in name only.

One of the most glaring examples o fthis type of tentative legislation was furnished by the "economy" bloc of the lower house, organized during the last two days of the session.

The group had a program, the details of which had not been worked out. So the members merely introduced some 40 bills which said: "An act to amend—sections of the act entitled—.

From such a description it would appear the lawmakers left themselves adequate leeway. In the meantime, or at least until February 28 when the legislature revonvenes, the skeletons will have to shiver along until they are amended and given a little legislative flesh and blood.

Until that time the complete program of the 1933 legislature will not be known.

GILMORE MINE NEAR IOWA HILL IS WORKING

Working ten men since last August, the Gilmore brothers have put their drain tunnel through their gravel property, about six miles out of Iowa Hill ,for a distance of about 900 feet. In another three months they expect to be in pay dirt that will average $2.50 per cubic yard for six feet above bed rock, according to tests holes. From the $2.50 gravel up to the grass roots, a distance of 200 feet, the gravel will average between five and seven cents per cubic yard, gravel that could be hydraulicked to advantage but entirely too low a grade for drifting.

Within their limit of six feet above bed rock, the Gilmore brothers and their partners have over 400,000 cubic yards of workable gravel, in which they expect to find some that will go considerably higher than $2.50. They are not counting on that richer gravel, however, but have developed their production to such a point that their cost of working the gravel will be something less than $2.50 per cubic yard.

The gravel on the Gilmore mine is cemented, a condition that they will overcome by the use of a ball mill that has been installed on the property. A jack hammar is used in running the tunnel and a mucking machine aids materially in cutting the costs of moving gravel. Track has been laid in the tunnel and a train of eight cars is used to haul the mined gravel out.

When their objective, the $2.50 gravel, is reached, the Gilmore brothers will handle from 100 to 200 yards per working day. The crew of ten men will be maintained.

Without the use of their mucking machine, the cost of working the gravel by hand would be in the neighborhood of $4.00 per cubic yard. The mucking machine cuts the cost of handling gravel about in half.

Besides the placer gold that will be recovered from the gravel, L. Gilmore states that all of the black sand concentrates will be saved and shipped to a smelting company. This will boost the total values recovered.

The Gilmore brothers, L. Gilmore, C. H. Gilmore and S. Gilmore, have as their partners three Los Angeles men, namely: William Swartz, Dr. Swartz, and O. C. Pauff.

NEVADA CITY THE GATEWAY TO MOUNTAIN PLAYGROUND

By CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN

What is this thing Morale? Answer: Morale is the most potent force known. It moves mountains, dams, rivers, builds cities, paints masterpieces, composes operas, conquers depressions, fights plagues, invents machines, writes books, in fact performs nearly all work of whatever kind man or woman may desire to do. Collectively speaking of the masses of America, the esprit of this nation has been proved beyond all doubt. Show me a hard job and I'll show you any number of men who will tackle it, that's the American morale, which to date has never shown the white feather or the yellow streak.

Perhaps you'll read this and say that I am playing to the gallery and that my efforts are to popularize my stories, quite true, but only in this sense that optimism may contaminate any who have been singing the blues, for I say to you that had we not the morale and the fortitude of the gods, this good old U. S. A., would never have withstood the ravages of our unpopular depression, which brings me to my subject.

NEVADA CITY THE GATEWAY TO THE MOUNTAIN PLAYGROUNDS.

It is your privilege to have your own opinion about tourits and the value of having them to come to Nevada City, be that as it may, but—let me bring this fact to your mind, that no matter what, the financial status of said tourist, nevertheless by force of circumstance he MUST spend some of what he has, while he stays.

Also, if you make the tourist like the town and its people, he may make his home here, may even control enough finance to develop some of YOUR natural resources and your children may find themselves living in the MOUNTAIN METROPOLIS of Nevada county.

Governor Rolph's charges that Senator Inman was involved in a "pardon racket" failed to startle California editors many of whom regard "hitting back" as a well known political trick to divert public attention in troublesome times.

In the opinion of some observers, however, the charges having been formally preferred, they should be investigated to ascertain whether there is any basis in fact for the governor's accusations.

Declaring Senator Inman may have bitten off more than he can chew in trying to discredit Governor Rolph, the Pittsburg Post Dispatch said:

"The counter-charges by the governor accusing Inman of participating in a 'pardon racket' by allegedly selling his influence to obtain clemency for convicts in state prisones, threaten Inman with a damaging loss of prestige unless h ecan disprove them. Of course it will be argued that the goveernor himself is on trial before the special senate investigating committee and has much to refute himself. Nevertheless, Rolph has a right to examine the motives of his chief senatorial critic and perhaps the background of the man."

"Just what the charges made by the governor against Inman really amount to cannot be clearly seen at this distance," said the Napa Register. "It is evident that they have to do largely with questions of professional ethics, which the California Bar association itself would have grave difficulty in answering. All of which leads the Register to suggest that the investigating of Governor Rolph's administration by the Inman committee and the cross fire by Rolph will get neither the state legislature nor the people of California anywhere."

The Redwood City Tribune comments:

"The fact that the governor has delayed until now his accusations against Inman, although they are based upon incidents alleged to have occured as far back as Governor Stephens' administration, arouses a suspicion that the governor's motive is personal revenge rather than abstract justice."

"This may and may not be the old trick of backfiring when trouble is in the air," remarks the Salinas Index Journal. "It is almost always used. It tends to divert public attention from the original issue and to weaken the cause. The challenge issued by Rolph, however, includes some accusations of a somewhat grave nature, which, if they can be substantiated, might result in an investigation of the investigator. It is a great game, politics."

The Santa Barbara Morning Press concludes that "the sad part of it all is, that nothing will b e accomplished as a result of the charges and counter-charges that are being made," adding.

"That the whole thing is a mess of political intrigue, and a dirty mess at that. Inman wants revenge for political purposes and thinks he has the goods on the governor. There is doubt in the minds of many as to that. 'Sunny Jim', no matter what his ability or lack of ability as a stateman may be, is too experienced a politician to become involved in any crooked work that might result in his being thrown out of office."

WEEKLY COMMENT

By Christian Andersen

In Liberty for February 18th, Bernarr McFadden who is an authority on dietetics states that people can be fed on palatable food for 1 cent per day.

To everyone who is charged with feeding the unemployed this information must be of interest. I call attention to this Editorial as it will bear repitition and is timely impormation to anyone who is in need of it.

I knew Mr. McFadden in Chicago when he had a health restaurant at Clark and Washington. Since then 30 years has elapsed and Mr. McFadden has become famous as a dietician. He himself is doing much charitable work in New York and any information he gives can be taken as gospel.

The Twin Cities are blessed with a supply of fresh milk which is not surpassed anywhere, it is possible and safe to buy raw milk here (pardon my personal view on this) which certainly is more palatable and surely more nourishing than the pasteurized.

Although in some instances, pasteurization is necessary for safety.

Fireproofing the forests along our highways is proceeding with utmost speed, it consists of burning rubbish and brush along the highway as well as chopping out brush which might be a fire hazzard. This is comprehensive work and many a fire will be averted in this way.

Thirty-seven years ago, I landed as an immigrant with wooden shoes on, in the Castlegarden at New York, after passing emigration officials I was at last in the land of liberty and with a few reservations (mostly minor) I am still thrilled to be here and an American citizen. Snuff is not made where I came from, but it has the same name.

Galsworthy went to Eternal rest in Westminister Abbey, a man of his standing in contemporary literature will long be remembered and his books will be treasured evermore.

One-one-half pounds loaves of bread at 10 cents made their appearance in Grass Valley and there was a rush to get some.

Our own bakeries in the Twin Cities could amply care for the wants of our people, with out help from Sacramento or anywhere else, and my observation is that our bakeries make as good a quality bread as any coming from the outside.

If the boy who swallowed an open pocketknife, recovers without an operation, spinach which is his diet will no doubt gain impetus as a diet.

Ads may read like this: If you accidentally swallow a knife just buy a can of our spinach which we guarantee to remove knifves without pain.

The Red Cross of Nevada City sent food and supplies to a man and his family snowbound near Delhi about 10 miles from San Juan, and approachable only on snowshoes.

When a Soldier Boy Goes By

Dedicated to the American Legion of Nevada County

The flag goes by with it's gleaming bars
And it's stars in a field of blue,
And we bow our heads with a whispered prayer
And pledge our allegiance anew.
Oh, white of the morning's pearly dawn,
And red of the sunset sky,
We worship thy folds, but what do we do
When a soldier boy goes by?

We doff our hats to the president
And fire a salute or two,
We stand when the governor comes in,
The mayor we honor too;
We clap our hands and shout with joy
When a potentate is nigh,
But sometimes we even forget to smile
When a soldier boy goes by.

Ot well, of course he has done his bit,
He is only one of the boys;
He had his day of glorious life,
With it's glitter, it's pomp and it's noise.
But he carried the flag to lands afar,
For it's honor he'd gladly die,
So why should our hearts forget—forget
When a soldier boy goes by?

Oh, here's to our flag with it's gleaming bars
and it's stars in a field of blue;
And here's to the far-flung land we love,
Allegiance we pledge anew.
And here's to the ones who fought and bled
Neath the light of an alien sky!
Smile, and speak, and stretch out a hand
When a soldier boy goes by.

This is to Correct an Erroneous Statement—It was reported that W. E. Borton of French Corral, had been renting a place from Mrs. J. Kirkwood in that town. That statement is wrong and we have been asked to correct it. Mr. Borton has been living in his own tent across Coyote street from the Kirkwood home and has not at any time paid Mrs. Kirkwood rent for the property he occupied. In place of his tent, Mr. Borton has recently built a neat little cabin near the place where the tent was.

The Yuba River Country

During the construction of the Railroad, John F. Kidder, who had come up from Salinas way where he had helped with the construction of the Monterey County Road-a narrow gauge built to tap the grain-feilds of the Salinas valley as Superintendent for the contractors. His performance of these duties so impressed the people of Nevada City and Grass Valley that an insistant demand began to be felt in favor of his being placed in charrge of the completed property. In a January, 1876, issue of the Nevada City Transcript, the editor urged the N. C. N. G. R. R. Directors to appoint Kidder, and then continued: "We desire to add the General Superintendent should be one who knows all about railroad business. He should be capable of running an engine, making a survey, placing switches, driving spikes, and all other practical work required. He should be energetic, prompt and firm. Mr. J. F. Kidder, present superintendent of construction, is the very man for the place. He has all the qualifications required."

Bowing to public opinion, which probably coincided with their own, the Board of Directors on March 14, 18876, appointed Kidder as General Superintendent of the line. Later that month the first freight train was run over to Colfax to bring back a load for Grass Valley. A number of local business men went along for the trip—and it seems staged a celebration in one of the Colfax taverns. As a result Kidder stated he would take no more crowds like that unless he had a newspaper reporter along to help keep them in line. In early April Kidder apponited David McKinney as conducter, his appointment being confirmed by the Board of Directors. Later another conductor by the name of Moody was appointed. McKinney was a little too ambitious—the least of his ambitions being to get Kidder's job. So it was not very long before he was replaced by Lougridge.

REGULAR SCHEDULES

Regular schedules from Grass Valley to Colfax was instituted April 17, 1876. The first train left Grass Valley at 5:40 a. m. and connected with Central Pacific train No. 7 at 7 a. m. As both trains were due to arrive in Colfax at the same time, and as both tracks paralled each other for about a mile—frequent races between the big main line and the little fellow were in prospect.

In the Union of April 16th the editor dropped a tear for the Colfax-Grass Valley Stage line operated by Wellington and Gilbert. "After today there will be no more outside seats alongside of Bob Scott, Matt Baily or Leroy Smith, with accompanying jokes and social chat, but the passenger will have his ticket punched with care, inside a narrow gauge car. This world is a world of change, and in time the narrow gauge road may have to give way to a double track of standard gauge." However, the automobile stage has revenged the fate of his horse drawn ancestor—by delivering on almost fatal blow to the Narrow Gauge along with the rest of America's railway system. Incidentally, the Narrow Gauge has since bought up its competitor and is now running its own regular stage line between Auburn, Grass Valley and Nevada City.

SPITTONS PROVIDED

The citizens of Grass Valley and Nevada City felt a most personal interest in their railroad. The ladies of Nevada City concluded to fit up the passenger car that was to run between their city and Colfa, with carpets, mats, and spittoons. Some of the men objected to spittoons in the passenger cars and urged that spitters belonged in the smoking car. But the ladies had their own ideas as to where the spitters belonged and provided the spittoons just the same. And on the first trip the car was to be decorated with flowers and other pretty things.

The ladies of Grass Valley were not to be outdone, so on May 22, they wrote: "Mr. Jno. F. Kidder, Superintendent of N. C. N. G. R. R., Dear Sir: The ladies of Grass Valley, through you, have the pleasure of presenting a silk flag to Engine No. 1, its beautiful colors to be first unfurled to the breeze on the morning of the 26 inst., when the former residents of this county shall have their grand re-union, and to be used thereafter for excursions, and holidays,—except on Sundays.

"The ladies also present carpet, rugs, and spittoons for the use of passenger car Grass Valley No. 4. May health and prosperity attend all in any way connected with the railroad—stockholders, superintendent, conductor, engineer, ticket agent, baggage master, etc., even down to the boy who sells peanuts and candy. Yours respectfully, The Ladies."

To which Kidder replied: "To the Ladies of Grass Valley, in behalf of the officers and employees of the N. C. N. G. R. R., permit me to return our most sincere thanks for the beautiful and valuable flag which you have this day presented us and for the kind wishes in the note accompanying the same. Rest assured that we value your present, not so much for its intristic value, as a testimonial that so far our acts have not with your approval; and the flag with its stars and stripes will ever be a reminder to us to so govern our conduct that we shall never be ashamed to meet the Ladies of Grass Valley. God bless them."

RAY RILEY'S TAX PLAN ADVOCATED

By MELVIN LORD

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 12—(UP)—A state-wide campaign to acquain California taxpayers with the so-called "Riley plan" of tax revision, will be inaugurated this month, according to Ray L. Riley, state controller.

The first of a series of meetings will be held in Marysville, February 9, to be followed by meetings in Los Angeles, February 14, Fresno, February 17, and Sacramento on February 24 and 25.

Both Riley and Fred E. Stewart, chief of the state tax research bureau, announced they would "take the stump" to advocate approval of the plan to equalize taxes and meet the threat of a state deficit to reach $9,600,000 by July 1.

The plan, as outlined by Riley and incorporated in a bill introduced in the senate, includes the following major points:

(1)—Increases in district, municipal, county or state taxes would be limited to 5 per cent annually except in cases of emergency when permission for greater increases would be necessary from the state board of equalization.

(2)—Counties would be relieved of the matching of the state elementary school support of $30 per pupil, and the state's $30 per pupil fir high schools would be doubled.

(3)—All taxpayers would be put "on the same side of the fence" by repeal of Amendment No. 1 and the return of property of puplic utility companies such as gas and electric companies, railroads and telegraph concerns, would be returned to local tax rolls instead of being assured only by the state.

(4)—Personal property, stocks, bonds and intangibles would be assessed by the state on a constructive rate for state purposes.

(5)—All utility property would be assessed by the state board of equalization to eliminate necessity of dealing with 58 county assessors in this matter.

(6)—One-half of the state's general fund requirements would be returned to the counties on an ad valorem basis.

(7)—With the completion of county budgets, including that portion of the state's budget, no more than one-half of the money required shall be levied against real estate.

(8)—County boards of supervisors every August would certify to the state the amount of the county budget, and the unfinanced 50 per cent would be provided through the levying of a gross receipts or transaction tax at a rate sufficient to meet the amount needed by the counties plus enough to balance the state's budget after inheritance, insurance, bank, personal property or utility taxes etc., are credited.

"The purpose of the revision is to place a definit limit on taxes against real estate. The transactions tax would be inclusive, and in the case of salaries would amount to an income tax at a low rate with a $1,000 exemption," Riley said.

"The immediate result would be an equalization of real estate values on a basis of 100 per cent of value for the reason that the money obtained from the gross receipts tax would be allocated back to the counties on a basis of wealth and population to balance the local budget."

HOUSE AFLAME, DOG SAVES SLEEPING FAMILY

LAKEPORT, Feb. 12—(UP)—Wesley Bonfield of Konocti bay has a pet police dog he thinks should be given a hero medal.

The Bonfield home burst into flames early in the morning while the family was asleep. The dog tore through the screen door and opened the inner door by turning the knob with his teeth—a trick taught him by his master.

His barking aroused the two Bonfield children, who in turn awakened their parents. All escaped from the building just as the roof collapsed.

Hurst to protect his tankhouse from burglars rigged a single barrel shotgun to fire automatically when the tank-house door opened.

Needing something in a hurry in the tankhouse he forgot his own trap. It was necessary to remove 150 pellets of a shotgun load from his legs.

ARTIST MOVES TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

After spending over two months in Nevada City, Clofford L. Warner, landscape and portrait artist, has moved his studio to Long Beach, California. Warner came here from Michigan to regain his health. He not only regained his health completely while here, but visited and painted some of the most beautiful spots in America, using Mr. Warner's own words.

Mr. Warner opened a studio on Pine street just to the north of the Broad street intersection. It was in reality an minature art gallery composed chiefly of paintings made by the artist in almost every state of the Union. Visitors were welcome at all hours when Mr. Warner was in, but during the day time, one was most apt to find the artist hidden away in one of the most secluded spots in Nevada City district, plying has brush and obvious to all other things.

Mr. Warner's favorite medium is oil, although several of his water colors have attracted much favorable attention. A number of his paintings were sold to local art enthusiastis who prize the pictures highly.

After a few days in Nevada City, our visitor became greatly inspired with the beauty of the surrounding country. He said it was one of the picture spots of America and that an artist could spend a life time here plying his trade and then not begin to interpret all of it's scenic beauties. Mr. Warner took full advantage of the snow scenes and his rendering of them excited the admiration of all art lovers.
